Cultural asset	Chapel of Santa Croce
Municipality	Aisone
Address	Via Santa Croce, 18 (44.31317, 7.21692)
Description	The chapel preserves one of the rare 16th Century's frescoes depicting Christ crucified between the two thieves and the grieving Madonna. The chapel was probably built at that time, on the initiative of the confraternity of the same name, as a procession destination. Originally, it must have had the architectural layout typical of the chapels of that period; that is, a quadrangular plan with a cross-shaped roof. It was enlarged and raised in the 18th Century, and on this occasion, a new altar was erected at the back wall (which was to cover the fresco).

Cultural asset	Caves
Municipality	Aisone
Address	Upstream of the village (44.313713, 7.208701)
Description	There are numerous natural cavities upstream of the village of Aisone that were used by man in prehistoric times. Caves can be seen from the road and a short walk can be taken along the valley of the Borbone River: after the road to the Pirone, take a dirt track on the right that leads to a suggestive basin surrounded by walls and conglomerate towers. Archaeological excavations carried out in the fifties and nineties of the twentieth century revealed a seasonal agreement dating from the Middle and Late Neolithic Period (5th - beginning of the 4th millennium BC). Frequency at the Aisone site was probably also linked to the supply of quartzite, which could be found in the surroundings of the shelter and, more generally, in the area of the Argentera range. Subsequent attendance at the site shows transalpine and southern Piemonte influences (second half of the 5th Century BC).
